With the Focus T25 workout schedule, the excuse of "I don't have time to workout" is no longer acceptable. Even before the Focus T25 workout release, I was (and still am) a firm believer that everyone can afford 1 hour a day for exercise. But some people's schedules are a little tighter maybe you are in college doing your masters program, maybe you work 12-14 hour shifts at work ...

The issue here is not so much that he got something wrong, but that he is capable of presenting a theory in all seriousness that gives results that are so far from reality without even stopping to notice. If you're trying to present a theory that's supposed to represent reality, surely you would ensure that you (a) understand what your answers mean, and (b) take every opportunity to compare ...

Have you ever wondered what's better, the NSCA or the NASM certification? Odds are, more than one person thinking about how to be a personal trainer has pondered this because both NASM and NSCA are heavy hitters in the personal trainer certification game. I started thinking about this question after I got an email from Dylan, one of the readers of my website.

You and the original poster are both partially right in my experience. I also got my ticket in 2005, and while I wasn't required to take spin training, we spent some time on "stall-spin awareness" that was designed to help lessen the possibility that you might get into a stall-spin situation, and also how to recover from a spin, although we never actually did any.
